COMMISSIONERS APPOINTED TO FIX COMPENSATION TO HASBROUCK ESTATE

For Taking of Land for Road Connecting Rondout Creek Bridge With State Highway—Will Meet in Kingston September 12—E. E. Ougheltree and Philip Elting Appear as Attorneys for Hasbrouck Estate.

The commissioners appointed by Judge Rosch on Saturday to fix the amount to be paid by the county of Ulster to the estate of the late Dr. Josiah Hasbrouck of Port Ewen for the taking of land required for the road from the state road to the Rondout Creek Bridge on the Esopus side of the creek are:

Herbert F. Roy, lawyer, president of the Rensselaer County Bar Association, Troy, N. Y.

Roland B. Sanford, lawyer, former congressman, Albany, N. Y.

The appointment of the commission was made at the special term of the supreme court held in Monticello, on the application of John W. Eckert, county attorney, acting for the board of supervisors of Ulster county. The application for the appointment of commissioners was not bpposed.

E. E. Ougheltree of this city appeared for Mrs. Kathryn H. Leonhardt, daughter of Dr. Josiah Hasbrouck, and also for Philip Elting of this city, attorney for the other heirs of the Hasbrouck estate, who are John H. Hasbrouck of this city and Emily S. Burnett of Sleightsburgh, and for Dr. Walter D. Hasbrouck, Judge Gilbert D. B. Hasbrouck and John M. Hasbrouck, the trustees of the estate under the will of Dr. Josiah Hasbrouck.

Judge Rosch directed the commissioners to hold their first meeting on Tuesday, September 12, at noon, in the court house in this city. At this time the commissioners will take the oath of office, organize, and fix a date for the first hearing.

TSCHIRKY NAMED PRESIDENT OF THE VAN WINKLE HOTEL CO.

Other Officers Chosen by Directors Saturday Include Two Kingston Men—Fuller Company to Build—Start Tearing Down Sharpe Homestead October 1.

Officers of The Van Winkle Hotel Company, Inc., were elected by the directors at a meeting held in this city Saturday afternoon, and announment was made following the meeting that arrangements have been practically completed with the T. A. Fuller Company of New York city to build the new hotel at the corner of Clinton and Albany avenues.

The officers elected at Saturday's meeting at the hotel company directors were: Oscar Tschirky, president; Herbert Carl, first vice-president; H. T. McKeever of New York city, second vice-president; H. A. Hoysradt of New York city, secretary; Judge Joseph M. Fowler, treasurer.

The Fuller Company is one of the largest construction companies in the United States and has erected hotels, office buildings and all other kinds of buildings in all parts of the country. For many years it has been among the foremost construction companies in New York city, and for many years the H. W. Palen plant on Broadway was engaged almost exclusively in supplying the woodwork for many of its big contracts.

Following the meeting of the directors, they visited the Sharpe property, the site of the new hotel, and the Sharpe homestead. With the closing of title to the property shortly, Judge Sharpe will vacate the house, but material for the construction of the hotel meanwhile will be delivered on the grounds. It is not likely that the actual work of demolishing the present house will take place until about the first of October but work thereafter will be pushed rapidly as the Fuller Company has the means at its command to construct the new hotel with the same speed as if the construction work were to take place in New York or any other big city.

SPECIAL SESSION OPENS TONIGHT

Lawmakers Will Hear Governor's Message and Are Expected Promptly to Create Powerful Fuel Administration, Adjourning Tuesday Night.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Aug. 28.—Members of the state legislature were arriving in Albany on nearly every train today for the extraordinary session which Governor Miller called for tonight to perfect legislation to cope with the coal crisis. Indications are that the session will be brief, probably completing its work by Tuesday night.

The lawmakers probably will be in session about two hours tonight, listening to the reading of the governor's message. The governor is expected to ask for legislation to create a state fuel administration with broad power to regulate the distribution and price of coal.

It is understood the governor has told the leaders in the legislature that unless the office of fuel administrator is clothed with sufficient power to fix coal prices, if necessary, nothing will have been accomplished at the extra session.

Under the state constitution, only subjects which the governor suggests in his message can be considered at an extraordinary session. It is expected that some of the Democratic members will have some coal legislation all prepared to be introduced when the session convenes.

Governor Miller is expected here this afternoon from his summer home at Lake George and will hold a final conference with Speaker Machold of the Assembly, Senator Lusk, majority leader of the senate and other leading Republican members of both houses.

So confident is the governor that the legislature will follow out his suggestions that he already is said to be looking about for a man who can handle the job of state fuel administrator. One name which has been suggested to the governor for the post is that of General George W. Goethals, noted army engineer and constructor of the Panama canal. Delos W. Cook, state fuel administrator during the war, also has been suggested.

CONFESS THEY WRECKED "MILLION DOLLAR EXPRESS"

Striking Shopmen Own to Amazing Terrorist Plot—Ten Under Arrest—Union Officials Not Aware of Conspiracy.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Ten men were under arrest today, and one had made an amazing confession of death and destruction in the rail strike, according to Lieut. Michael Grady, "ace" of the detective bureau.

A number of those under arrest here were said to be "Red" students of the Lenin-Trotzky reign of terror in Russia.

According to the police, four of the men who were first arrested are implicated by the confession in the wrecking of the "Million Dollar Express" of the Michigan Central Railroad at Gary, Ind., a week ago.

A plot of the terrorists to bomb the shops and sleeping quarters of workmen in the New York Central yards at Elkhart, Ind., and the wrecking of a New York Central flyer near this city, was told, following the confession. The wrecking and bombing were to have been carried out this week.

The arrests were made secretly. Two of the men were minor officials in the railroad shopworkers' union, it was said by police.

Neither local nor international executives of the union had knowledge of the plot which was fostered by a ring of half a dozen fanatic zealots who spread the "Red" doctrine among the workers.

The man who confessed is said to have given the name of Charles Huselis. He and the others were being held in the Gary police headquarters.

The arch conspirator, taken by detectives to the spot of the wreck near Gary, pointed out the exact spot where spikes were drawn from a rail. "Did you try to wreck a passenger train to kill passengers?" he was asked.

"We didn't care," he declared in broken English. "Didn't make no difference, passenger or freight. We wanted to kill the fireman and engineer. If there were others, what's the difference? What did we care?

"We wanted the fireman and engineer. We wanted to make the rest of the train crews refuse to run trains.

"We wanted to blame it on bad equipment so we could win the strike."

Four of the men under arrest were formerly employed in shops of the New York Central. They chose the Michigan Central, they said, after a tacit understanding with another ring of "Reds" in the Michigan Central shops, whereby they were to wreck a train on the Michigan Central in return for which the others were to wreck a New York Central train.

"We didn't think they'd suspect us if we wrecked a train on another road," they said.

HEAVY DAMAGE CLAIM TO BE MADE

Commission to Appraise Bridge Approach Will Probably Have New and Intricate Questions Presented in Connection With Skillypot Loss of Business.

More than ordinary interest will be directed to the condemnation proceedings before the commissioners who will appraise the land owned by the Dr. Josiah Hasbrouck estate at Port Ewen which has been used for the Port Ewen approach to the new Rondout Creek Bridge, and the commissioners appointed by Judge Rosch at Monticello on Saturday will probably find many interesting questions presented to them.

The failure of the Hasbrouck estate to agree with the county of Ulster upon the price to be paid for the land made it necessary for the county to begin proceedings to condemn the property, the same as has been done in other cases where land was acquired for state highway purposes and the owners and the county did not agree on values.

Although various bills introduced in the legislature which would have given the Hasbrouck estate an assured claim for indirect damages were vetoed both by Governor Smith and Governor Miller, it seems probable that the Hasbrouck estate will continue its claim to damages because of the falling off of business of the Skillypot chain ferry, on the assumption that existing laws gave the estate a right to such damages. These claims will be stoutly resisted by the county of Ulster.

Readers of The Freeman are familiar to some extent with the claims for indirect damages which were made before the various Ashokan condemnation and business damage commissions, both by property owners whose land was taken and by those whose property was not taken. The indirect damage claims which were tried in connection with the Ashokan condemnation were created by the Water Supply Act as the result of the public hearings before the State Water Supply Commission in this city because claims of that character were not recognized by the law in condemnation proceedings up to that time.

In proceedings for the condemnation of land taken by the government, the state, county, municipality or any corporation which has been given the power of eminent domain, the general rule of damages as explained repeatedly before various appraisal commissioners and published in the newspapers is the difference in value of the land before the taking and the value afterward. If one acre is taken out of a ten acre tract, the question which is presented for the commissioners' determination is the value of the ten acres before the one acre is taken out, and the value of the remaining nine acres afterward.

To this question of damages the Hasbrouck estate tried to add the question of indirect damages to the Skillypot chain ferry by reason of the loss of passengers who would travel over the new Rondout Creek Bridge instead of paying ferry fare, and the last bill passed by the legislature, which was vetoed by Governor Miller, was drawn in practically the same language as to the creation of such a claim that was used in the New York City Water Supply Act. In the Water Supply Act, however, the damages were to be paid by the city of New York; in the Skillypot ferry bills, the damages were to be paid by the state of New York and the county of Ulster.

The language of the Skillypot ferry bills makes it evident that the Hasbrouck estate considers as one tract or parcel all of the land owned by it on both sides of Rondout creek, from Port Ewen to Ferry street in this city. The Hasbrouck estate owns the real estate on both sides of the creek used for the ferry slips, and because of this fact it believes damages should be awarded on the principle of "the value before the taking and the value after the taking" because the ferry would thus be considered part of the real estate.

In various condemnation proceedings in Ulster county from the time that land was condemned for construction of the West Shore Railroad down to the present, the question of damages has included determination of benefits to the land which remains after the taking, but while such benefits might considerably enhance the value of the remainder through opportunity for development which otherwise would not have been possible, the owner always is paid for the land that is taken.

Therefore in the present case, while it may be contended that the value of the Hasbrouck land in Port Ewen has been greatly enhanced by reason of the construction of the Rondout Creek Bridge, there would not be any claim that the land taken for the approach should not be paid for. In some of the Ashokan cases where part of a farm was taken, testimony was given to show that the value of the land that was left was being enhanced because of its greater accessibility through the construction of the Ashokan boulevard, and its greater desirability on account of the beauty of the huge artificial lake created by the construction of the Ashokan dam. The city in all cases was willing to pay for the value of the land taken, but insisted that in the determination of such value there should be taken into account the enhanced value of what remained, and this question naturally will arise in the trial of the Hasbrouck estate claim also.

Other questions naturally will come up in the Hasbrouck estate case besides that of the opportunity of development created by reason of the new Rondout Creek Bridge. These questions probably will include the question heretofore raised when the Skillypot ferry damage bills were before the legislature and before Governor Smith and Governor Miller, in regard to the operation of the ferry, which operates under a license granted by the county judge for a term of five years. This license has been renewed when it expired. The ferry is now operating under such a license. There will probably also arise again the question heretofore discussed at Albany and much discussed in Ulster county, of whether the opening of the new Rondout Creek Bridge in any way interferes with the operation of the ferry, which is still running on schedule time, and the right of the public to be provided with a choice of routes in entering or leaving Kingston, either by way of the Rondout Creek Bridge or by the Skillypot.

The general impression about town is that up to the time the Rondout Creek Bridge opened, the net income to the Hasbrouck estate from the Skillypot was at least $30,000 a year. Since the public has been enabled to travel more expeditiously, and without charge over the new Rondout Creek Bridge, the receipts from the ferry have fallen off to practically nothing.

TEASER TEASED HER WITH BOTTLES

Jesse Teaser is some tease but unfortunately for those he likes to tease he uses a brick or an empty bottle. As a result of his teasing proclivities Susie Waynes of Steep Rocks was brought to the Kingston City Hospital Sunday morning where Dr. Norwood dressed the cuts on her face. Susie informed the hospital authorities that Jesse had struck her with a brick and then used an empty bottle in inflicting the wounds. The police department was notified and Officer Sachloff made an investigation and learned that the last seen of Teaser, who is a negro, was when he had crossed the river in a small boat. Susie, who also is colored, later left the hospital after her wounds were dressed.

SAUGERTIES CASE TO GRAND JURY

Mrs. Margaret Kelly Offers No Defense and Waives an Examination—Mullen's Testimony Corroborated By a Number of Witnesses.

At the adjourned hearing in the case of Harold Mullen vs. Mrs. Margaret Kelly, both of Saugerties, the charge being assault in the second degree, threatening to shoot Mullen, which came before Justice H. D. Abeel Saturday morning, Mrs. Kelly through her attorney Clyde F. Gardener elected to waive examination and the case was sent to the grand jury. DuBois Gillette represented the district attorney's office.

Mullen was sworn and in the testimony declared he was on a ladder in Mrs. Kelly's yard applying stucco to the Saugerties Orpheum Theatre, when Mrs. Kelly informed him that he couldn't come over in her yard and do any more work. Afterward Mullen stated that he was on a scaffold putting the pebbles on when some of them dropped into the yard. Mrs. Kelly then told Mullen that if another pebble fell into her yard she would shoot him. Then she pulled the trigger of the gun and it exploded and something hit the building. According to Mullen she then said "you see it's loaded and I'm not fooling with you." He also testified that he did not know what kind of a gun it was as he could only see the barrels. Mullen's testimony was corroborated by George Mullen and other witnesses.

It was after the evidence of the people had been submitted that defendant's attorney decided to offer no defense before the court and waiving examination to have the case go to the grand jury.

COLLINS BURIED AS IRELAND WEEPS

Business in Greater Part of Free State Suspends—Funeral Among Largest in Irish History—Irregulars Try to Start Trouble.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Dublin, Aug. 28.—Michael Collins, late commander-in-chief of the Free State Army, was buried in Glasnevin Cemetery today alongside of other noted Irish patriots while all Ireland mourned. The funeral was one of the largest and most impressive in the history of Ireland. The great pro-Cathedral was crowded with mourners from all parts. Archbishop Byrne pronounced the requiem Mass.

Fighting, precipitated by Irregulars, threatened to mar the funeral services. At daybreak a party of Irregulars made an attack near the Pro-Cathedral but were driven off after a brisk exchange of shots.

Business in Dublin and throughout the greater part of the Free State was at a standstill during the day. Masses for the repose of the soul of the late patriot were said in many Catholic Churches and practically all the important Free State cities were in deep mourning.

A conductor on the Colonial trolley road reported that he had seen the girl alight from his car at the Central post office building. Later the police learned that the girl had been seen boarding the Saugerties bus, which leaves from the post office building.

Since then all trace of her had been lost. She stands 5 feet 4 inches in height and weighs 115 pounds and has blue eyes and light hair and fair complexion.

PEEKSKILL HERE AGAIN WEDNESDAY

Another fast baseball game is in store for the Kingston baseball fans on Wednesday, when the fast Peekskill A. C. aggregation will appear at the Kingston Fair Grounds to play a return engagement with the home team. The Peekskill team made a good impression with the home fans when they appeared here for their first game but they made a still better impression when they appeared here last Saturday and took a fall out of the Colonials. Every man on the team is a real baseball player, both in regard to hitting and fielding. Ward, Taliaferro and Fogarty all made their appeal to the fans by their brilliant playing and are among the best that have played here this year.

Another announcement made by the Colonial management which will be of interest to the Colonial followers is that Freddie Dahn, erstwhile captain of the Parker Axles, will be a member of the team for the rest of the season. The team has been in need of a couple of hard hitting outfielders and in the persons of Shay and Dahn they seem to have them, although a good many fans regret that it has been found necessary to go outside of the city to secure them.

MOVE FOOD FIRST, THEN RUSH COAL

"Strike Cabinet" Conference Decides On This Policy For Railroads And Expects To Carry It Out Through I. C. C. Without Emergency Legislation.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 28.—"Move coal. Food first, and then coal, but move coal."

Virtually this message went out to the railroads if the country today as a result of President Harding's conferences with his "strike cabinet" over the week end on the presidential yacht Mayflower which returned to the capital this morning.

Practically the entire trip was devoted to discussion of the critical industrial situation between President Harding and his guests, among them being Attorney General Daugherty, Secretary of Commerce Hover, Secretary of the Interior Fall, Senator Cummins of Iowa, Senator Kellogg of Minnesota and Chairman A. D. Lasker of the Shipping Board, according to those aboard.

As a result of the conference, it was said the government this week will devote all its energies to the prompt movement of coal supplies to prevent shutting down of industries.

Steps will be taken through the the Interstate Commerce Commission, operating its priority system, to give coal priority over all other commodities except essential foodstuffs.

It developed aboard the Mayflower that President Harding and his advisers believe the government can expedite coal shipments without the need of emergency legislation at present.

The opinion was generally shared by the president and his advisers that the coal production situation is improving daily.

Bituminous production, so vital to industry, is steadily increasing and will be nearly normal before the week is out.

In the anthracite field, the view was taken that the five months strike will be settled this week.

Thus the whole problem facing the government, it was agreed, is one of distribution of coal by the railroads that have been crippled to an alarming extent by the eight weeks' strike of railway shopmen.

$500 COAT STOLEN FROM UP-TO-DATE

Some time between the hours of 11:30 and 6:30 o'clock Saturday, a fur coat valued at $500 was stolen from the store of the Up-to-Date Company on Wall street. The coat was a Persian lamb coat, 45 inches in length and trimmed with black skunk collar and cuffs, the lining was gold figured leaves.

During the day the clerks were busy waiting on numerous customers and the coat was not missed until late in the day. It is thought that the coat was taken by a party of tourists which visited the store and after trying on the coat walked downstairs with it and out of the store. The loss is covered by insurance.

The local police have been notified and are conducting a search. A reward of $200 has been offered for the return of the coat.

GRAND JURY FOR HERRIN MASSACRE

Brundage Presents Evidence Said to Involve 200 Mine Strikers and Sympathizers—Unions' Attorneys on Hand to Defend Their Members.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Marion, Ill., Aug. 28.—"Bloody Williamson" county and the state of Illinois started today the machinery of the law to bring to justice those responsible for the Herrin "massacre"—the killing of 22 men during a coal strike riot.

In the little court house this morning, a special grand jury gathered to deliberate upon the evidence secured by Attorney General Edward J. Brundage, in charge of the investigation, and Assistant United States Attorney General Charles W. Middlekauf, retained by the attorney general to prosecute any cases in which indictments are secured.

Attorney General Brundage announced before the jury convened that he would give the jury a complete background of the whole story before any direct witnesess to the wholesale slaying are called.

Brundage declined to forecast how many indictments might be returned by the jury but current opinion among business men in Marion has it that upwards of 200 names will be involved.

Attorneys for the United Mine Workers of America are watching the proceedings with interest and will remain here to prepare for the defense of any union members who may be involved in the investigation.

COMMONWEALTH STOCK SALES DIRECTOR CHANGED

An item which will no doubt be of considerable interest to persons in this city holding stock in the Commonwealth hotel which is at the present time under the process of construction, appeared in the New York Tribune last week. The article stated that W. J. Hoggson, president, and R. A. Skinner, secretary, of E. L. Barnett, Inc., fiscal agents for the $15,000,000 Commonwealth Hotel project, joined in denying that friction was responsible for the substitution of the secretary for the president as director of stock sales and the granting of a six months' leave of absence to the latter.

Although Mr. Hoggson did not say that the leave of absence had been granted at his request, he explained that his only difference with Mr. Skinner was one of opinion as to the efficacy of certain methods for the disposal of stock in the hotel company, and that he was now giving the secretary an opportunity to show what his plan would do.

About one hundred salesmen are engaged at the present time in selling the stock on a commission of 8 and 12½ per cent and are disposing of about $30,000 worth a week. Approximately $12,200,000 still needs to be raised to pay for the cost of construction.

GOLD MINERS TRAPPED BY FIRE

Almost No Hope of Rescuing 45 Men Four-fifths of Mile Under Ground in One of Richest California Operations.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Jackson, Cal., Aug. 28.—Forty-five miners are trapped, 4,500 feet below the surface of the earth in the Argonaut mine, where a terrific blaze is burning at the three thousand foot level.

Little hope is held out for the safety of the trapped miners. Three men came through the flames to safety but the fire has cut off the others beyond hope of early rescue.

The one hope entertained, of getting the trapped men out alive, is through the Kennedy mine which runs parallel to the incline shaft of the Argonaut mine.

There is a bulkhead separating the two mines. This must be blown out and no man knows how much debris will be encountered beyond the bulkhead. It might require days to tunnel through.

The Argonaut and the Kennedy mines are two of the largest and most valuable gold mines in the state of California.

Each mine turns out something like a million dollars worth of gold ore a year.

A CHASTENED MILITARIST.

General Ludendorff is still supposed to be the busy captain of a militarist party in Germany that is carefully maturing its plans while biding its time and that may be expected to take the field as soon as the day of revenge is believed to have arrived. Both British and French observers in Germany have so indicated in recent months. One of the former has lately published an article showing that there are now "two main currents of opinion in Germany: one held in financial and industrial circles that there must not be another war under any circumstances, and the other that "a sudden and even partially successful military campaign would relieve the embarrassments of the country and further baffle the Allies." We read:

At the head of the other (militarist) body of opinion is Ludendorff and his generals conning their maps, noting their resources, increasing the store of poison gas, striving by every are of cajolery to terminate the occupation of the territory pledged for the fulfillment of German promises, so that they may carry their offensive, whenever the time for it arrives, outside German territory, and extending their intrigues east and west, so that a renewed struggle for Teutonic supremacy may again wear the aspect of a world war.

These observations of an English writer in the Fortnightly Review are in the main but repetitions of what we have heard from time to time ever since the war. Such appears to be the pretty generally accepted view. But General Ludendorff now flatly contradicts it, so far at least as he himself is concerned. In an interview obtained by a correspondent of the New York Herald he declares that he wants no war of revenge, that the use of military force by France to collect her dues would be disastrous to Germany, and he warns the German people that "the French armies will settle the reparations differences unless Germany finds a working agreement with France and Great Britain whereby both sides can profit." According to the Herald's correspondent, Ludendorff has no expectation that France will accept bankruptcy and let Germany go in peace. Therefore he opposes the Stinnes program of "profitable procrastination," declaring that experience has taught him that it does not pay to dispute with the man who has all the military advantage on his side. Obviously this is prudent counsel, for in infantry, cavalry, artillery and aviation the French are powerful and efficient, and nobody knows this better than the watchful Ludendorff, who is quoted as saying that there is only one way out for Germany: to make the best bargain she can and settle her reparation bill. He says he has no hope of the Stinnes scheme of compromise because the Allies, and particularly France, are too powerful to permit themselves to be bamboozled. Germany must rely on business, not on war and politics, he argues, and actually says that he himself is now more interested in economics than in military treaties.

If this new Ludendorff, and not the old, is the real Ludendorff of today, Germany is more fortunate than many have supposed. With even Ludendorff become a militarist so chastened, so sure that the game is up, that he turns from sabre-rattling to economics, Germany's prospects of a peaceful future are greatly brightened.

County fairs are now in order and with the right kind of weather the attendance should be big. The fairs have grown in popularity again and now that the war is over they should become as attractive as ever. Recently there has been a disposition of the officers to make the expositions as inviting and instructive to the city people as they are to the country people. By this method great things were accomplished, the fair has been an education in some things to those who attend no matter where they live.

The fight in the Democratic party is entertaining to the reading public and instructive as well. It teaches the people what they can expect with Democrats in power. As a matter of fact the Democrats make more damaging accusations against each other than the Republicans make against them. The result is the people can get a measure on what they might expect were the Democrats in control. Judging from what Democrats think of each other they do not belong in power.

The three hundred thousand citizens who petitioned President Harding to extend executive clemency to the 52 I. W. W. members now serving prison sentences for offenses under the Espionage act will be perplexed to hear that the objects of their solicitude proudly decline to sign the required individual applications for pardon. Presumably they desire freedom to step out, like Debs, defiantly announcing that they "would do it again."

2. What is an octopus really?
3. Please describe crow's eggs.

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. Is the Baltimore oriole found in the west?

Yes, as far west as the Rockies. The oriole commonly seen in the west, however, is the Bullock, Icterus bullocki. The male Baltimore has all-black head, black reaching half way down the back. Bullock has narrow black cap, narrow black throat patch, and sides of head and neck vivid orange.

2. At what season do bears mate?

In North America, in autumn. Cubs are born in January or February. Proportionately to the size of the parents, baby bears are smaller than other young animals, except possibly some of the marsupials of pouched animals, whose young at birth are not really developed. By the time cubs come out in spring from the hollow-tree home, they are of the stature of large kittens.

3. I have trouble with a fruit conserve kept in a stone crock in the pantry. Swarms of tiny flies hover over it. Can I get rid of them?

They are some kind of fruit fly, so tiny it is hard to screen them out of the house. Attack both ripe fruit left exposed and sweet pickle or conserve that is not tightly sealed. The grubs hatch in the soft fruit pulp from eggs laid in it, but as they are laid in the top layer, the whole mass of jam, etc., is not usually ruined, if the top is promptly skimmed. If you can't seal the jar, our only suggestion is a frame over it, covering with a very fine wire mesh

TWIRLER BIVEN TURNS IN A WIN

Marvel Man of Century Does His First Trick in Box for Gallupers Letting Down the Busters Without a Hit—A One-Man Game Staged in Mountain League.

Excitement was at white heat for Blink Biven, the super-pitcher of the century, was slated to twirl his first game with the Gallupers against their ancient rivals, the Busters, in the Mountain League that afternoon. The news of the signing up of the Biven brothers, Blink and Zink, had spread throughout the region and a record breaking crowd was in attendance at the game Long before the game started several thousand fans had to be turned away as there was no room for them on the playing field.

Promptly at 3 o'clock the Gallupers, headed by Captain Ralph Roodboy and followed by the Biven Brothers, marched out onto the diamond and indulged in some snappy practice while awaiting the arrival of the Busters who appeared shortly afterward and were given an opportunity to warm up.

Then Umpire Fairview called the game and the Busters trotted in for the first turn at the bat while the Gallupers took the field—that is Blink Biven, the wonder man trotted out into the pitcher's box, while his fellow Gallupers draped themselves on the players' bench.

"What's this?" asked the umpire in amazement at Blink

"I figured I would start the game alone," drawled Blink "and that if necessary I would call on brother Zink for a little aid, but I calculate he won't be needed."

"But man," protested the umpire, "where is your catcher?"

"Just watch my curve back," advised Blink "and you will soon see that I don't need a catcher or any fielders either."

By this time the crowd realized that they were to see something so utterly unusual in baseball that all they could do was sit back and gasp in amazement.

"Boys, we got a cinch," chuckled Captain Twin Gormley and sent the first Buster to the plate with instructions to knock the cover off the ball.

What followed left even Twin Gormley gasping for Blink only hurled three balls to the first Buster. The three balls sailed up to the plate at a terrific speed and then, incredible as it may seem, each ball shot up in the air and curved back into Blink's hands.

Umpire Fairview nearly fainted when he saw Blink throw the first curve back twist, and watched the Buster batter vainly strive to hit it. When Blink repeated the feat and retired the batter on three pitched balls the umpire turned to Blink saying: "Son, I can hardly trust my eyes but you seem to have done the trick."

"That's nothing," assured Blink modestly "just watch the rest of the game."

Inning after inning slid by with the Busters breaking their backs trying to hit the curve back, but so perfect control had Blink over his master curve of the century that he had no trouble in retiring the Busters without a hit during the entire game

Blink's record for the entire game was twenty-seven strikeouts with 81 thrown balls. That means that he struck out every man that faced him in the nine innings and did not waste a ball

"My gosh," gasped the fans, "who ever would have thought it."

As Blink was the only man playing for the Gallupers that day he also did all the batting, but Captain Twin Gormley, who tossed them over for the Busters, was in top form and all Blink could acquire was one hit, but that was a home run clout.

At the close of the ninth frame Captain Roodboy turned to his Gallupers saying "I guess I will let you all have that vacation you have been asking me for"

The question that now agitates the Mountain League is: "Can Blink Biven keep it up?"

PHOENICIA

Phoenicia, Aug 26—Different Sunday schools united and held a picnic at Riseley's Grove, Mt. Pleasant, Wednesday, and it was a beautiful one. The bracing air put vim in one and the outdoor world was an invitation to enjoy a walk in it. Muller's brass band of Kingston rendered good music, and all joined in a parade. The children enjoyed their ride.

Harriet Loomis is spending some time in Poughkeepsie, visiting relatives and friends.

Anna Clancy visited her sister at Shandaken, and spent a few days there.

Myrtle Ennist is visiting her friend Elsie Rider, at Hancock.

Grace Ahrens will have a nice line of fall millinery goods in.

The rain was welcome. It was needed badly and is not yet enough to fill the streams. The reservoir was at low pressure. The foliage looks fresh again after being washed by the rain, while the mountains look clean cut against the blue.

Mrs. J. Elvy spent Sunday and Monday with her sister at Edgewood.

The friends of Premo and Helen Nelio of the city, were glad to see them again in the place.

Miss Port of Kingston, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Grant.

Look out for your tame rabbits as the panther has been seen twice prowling around in the vicinity of the Kincade place. Mr. Applegate, who saw it near the creek, says it resembles a Canadian lynx.

School will soon open. Mr. Mathews will be principal again. Minnie Simpson, intermediate. Miss Kerr, primary.

B. Burger is having an up-to-date shoemaking shop built on a nice site below Dr. Gross's.

Quite a company of friends gathered at Mr. and Mrs. P. Lenning's Saturday evening in honor of Mr. Lenning's birthday. Games and music were enjoyed, as also the social hour, after which all sat down to a bountiful supper of good things which Mrs. Lenning knows just how to make appetizing. Those from Mt. Pleasant, were H. Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman and son Eugene, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eckert. Mr. Warren of Poughkeepsie was also present.

LAKE KATRINE.

Lake Katrine, Aug. 26.—A fair, lawn festival and dance will be given by the Lake Katrine Grange on Tuesday evening, August 29.

All that is necessary to be known is that the ladies of the Grange have been sewing for the fair, and since their culinary abilities are already known, nothing need be said in regard to that. Then the dance with Curt Shurter's orchestra.

Miss Beulah Brown, a distinguished artist of New York, is spending her vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Forde.

Miss Louise P. Sprague, private secretary of the New York office of Chicago Advertising Co., is spending her vacation with her niece, Mrs. Francis W. Forde.

Michael Collins and Miss Kittie Kiernan

While he was "on the run" for six years as Commander-in-Chief of the Irish Army, with a huge price on his head, Michael Collins wooed and won the beautiful Miss Kittie Kiernan, of Granard, County Longford, who was irresistibly attracted by the dashing young soldier. The romance was not disclosed until, in a personal and scathing attack upon Collins in Dail Eireann, Countess Markiewicz declared that, for having signed the peace treaty with England, Collins ought to marry Princess Mary.

In a beautiful answer, Collins, declared the Countess was bringing pain to his fiancee—and the secret was out. The marriage was to have taken place as soon as Collins brought peace to "this most distressful land." But the wedding will never take place, for Collins is dead at the hands of assassins, and Miss Kiernan is left to mourn.

ARE ELIGIBLE FOR SCHOLARSHIPS

Five Ulster County High School Graduates Among Following List Entitled to $100 Per Year for 4-Year College Course.

Following is a list of Ulster county high school pupils who became entitled to the college entrance diploma during the school year 1921-22 and who are consequently eligible to receive University scholarships if they are citizens of the United States and residents of the state of New York. There are issued to the pupils of each county five times as many scholarships as there are assembly districts in the county, being five for Ulster county, the number appointed being taken from the top of the list in each case. In case any one of those to whom the scholarship is offered in the first instance should decline the scholarship is immediately offered to the next eligible candidate on the list.

The law provides that the person to whom the scholarship is awarded may have thirty days within which to accept or decline. It is, therefore, impossible to announce the names of the recipients of scholarships until thirty days after the first notices have been sent and, inasmuch as the person who is offered a scholarship to fill a vacancy may have ten days in which to make a decision, the awards will not all be made until within forty days of the first announcement.

The holder of one of these scholarships will be entitled to one hundred dollars a year for the four years of his college course while attending any registered college in the state of New York.

The list follows:

1 Frederick H. Schroeder, 22 Livingston street, 89.55 per cent.
2 Kenneth W. Hasbrouck, 91 St. James street, 87.65 per cent.
3 Ethelwyne S. Harrington, 189 Fair street, 86.78 per cent.
4 Vernon D. Beehler, 359 Albany avenue, 84.44 per cent.
5 Mary E. Swart, 175 Pearl street, 84.03 per cent.

NO DEPRESSION AT UNIVERSAL PLANT

Business depression in some sections of this state does not seem to affect the Universal Road Machinery Company of this city as is shown by recent shipments from the local plant. Last week two 9 by 16 portable crushers with portable bins, elevators and screens were sent to William C. Hall, a large contractor of Montgomery, Pa., and two 10 by 18 crushing plants, with bins, etc., to J. B. Paterson of Lacon, Alabama. A six ton steam roller was also sold to the State Highway Department. A new innovation for the benefit of townships and contractors is the carrying in stock a large number of grinders of various sizes and also several carloads of reinforced concrete pipe for culverts, which is a great convenience to the town superintendents, as they can secure any amount they desire for their highway work without waiting for rail shipments. The Universal Company is planning a big display of its products at the coming show of goods made in Kingston to be held at the Kingston Fair Grounds in October.

BOY SCOUTS

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

A GLORIOUS OUTING

Tramp, tramp, tramp—dignified and quiet—tramp, tramp, tramp—sturdy and bronzed, into National Headquarters on July 22 walked 60 hardy lads, packs on their backs and the spell of the out-of-doors about them, fresh from a hike of 225 miles through the state of New York.

To Scout Executive W. F. Abriel, boy lover and outdoor enthusiast, the credit is due for the 850-mile trip enjoyed by these 60 honor scouts of Trenton, N. J. For months before the great trip, a merit system was in practice among the scouts at Trenton. Semi-weekly hikes were made of 12 and 15 miles. Personal health and correct diet were stressed. The 60 boys ranking highest in physical fitness and efficiency in scouting were selected for the trip.

Trenton bade them Godspeed when on July 10 they left in autos for New York City. There they took the boat for Albany where the hiking began. Up to Fort Ticonderoga they pushed, sleeping out of doors each night, cooking their meals in the open, stopping for rest periods and practice of swimming and scouteraft—but always with an objective point to reach each day. Scout Executive Abriel had hiked the entire distance twice in advance of the trip, arranging every detail.

Albany, Watertown, Stillwater, Schuylerville, Fort Edward, Saratoga, Schenectady, Sabbath Day Point, Fort Ticonderoga—these were among the stopping points. At each place contingents of local scouts met the party and entertainments were carried out, the Trenton lads' own fife and drum corps doing its share.

The historic points of the famous ground they covered were explained by the scout leaders and educational side tours, such as visits to the General Electric plant at Schenectady, the Capitol and the Educational building at Albany, were features of the trip.

Not one boy was sick, although the sun and rain vigorously challenged the scouts. Enthusiasm for perfect scoutcraft reigned; tents were pitched with flawless precision; tests were passed wherever opportunity presented itself to advance in scouting rank. Twenty-one merit badges were won.

Besides Scout Executive Abriel and the scouts, four adult leaders were in the party.

In commenting on the trip, Mr. Abriel said, "To me this is real scouting—a combination of work and play that brings to the boys the love of the out-of-doors, its wholesomeness and joy, with the opportunity to learn to work together generously and helpfully, each for all, all for each."

This itinerant camp was called "Camp Kiwanis" in honor of Trenton Kiwanians who are backing the scout movement in their city.

WILL LEARN TO FIGHT FIRE

Pueblo (Colo.) scouts have formed another class in firemanship under the direction of the city's fire chief. Scouts who graduated from the last course received badges exactly like those of the city firemen, with the exception that the badges of the former were inscribed "Scout Fireman." The record of the Pueblo scouts when their city was endangered in June, 1921, by flood and fire, is one that will be long remembered. Records of the Western Union office show that 10,000 telegrams were delivered by scouts within a few days after the flood, bringing relief to the anxious people awaiting word from the outside world. In addition, scouts carried food and clothing to homeless and marooned victims, warned families when to leave their threatened homes, distributed thousands of health circulars and performed innumerable errands.

ONE GOOD TURN

Here is the story of a recent good turn performed by a Buffalo scout of Troop 30: "One day while I was walking down the street I noticed a little boy sitting on the curbstone, his feet in some sand on the street pavement. His old grandmother was standing nearby. Suddenly a dump wagon came rattling down the street. I saw the dangerous position the little boy was in and ran to him, but before I reached him the wagon had passed over one of his feet. The old grandmother began to cry piteously. Then I remembered all my scout training. I comforted the old lady, picked up the child, carried him to his home, which was very near, and there I bandaged his injured foot."

WHY HE IS A SCOUT LEADER

Herbert Mooney, assistant deputy scout commissioner, District 5, Cleveland, O., says he is engaged in scout work because he believes it is the best recreation a man can find after working hours. "A man should get out and forget business after the day's work is done," says Mr. Mooney, "and how else can he spend his time to better advantage than by mingling with young boys, the men of tomorrow?"

Undoubtedly.

A ghost which spends its time sitting on the edge of a bed has made its appearance in a large country house near Hitchin. Probably the spirit of a departed plumber who died waiting for his mate.—Passing Show, London.

Crime Brings Own Punishment.

It is a great question whether the self-inflicted punishment of relinquishing every part of a former life even to family and friends, is not greater than the punishment of the law. The majority of fugitives flee from comparatively short-term sentences. They choose to give up freedom and liberty for life by their own decision rather than give it up for a few months or years at the decision of the courts. Even if they have found a way to hide successfully they are in constant fear of discovery. All persons have at least one small phase of their present lives that they love and wish to keep. As a fugitive one gives up every trace of a former self, for all successful fugitives have found there is always somebody to tell if there is anybody who knows.

Research Work Pays.

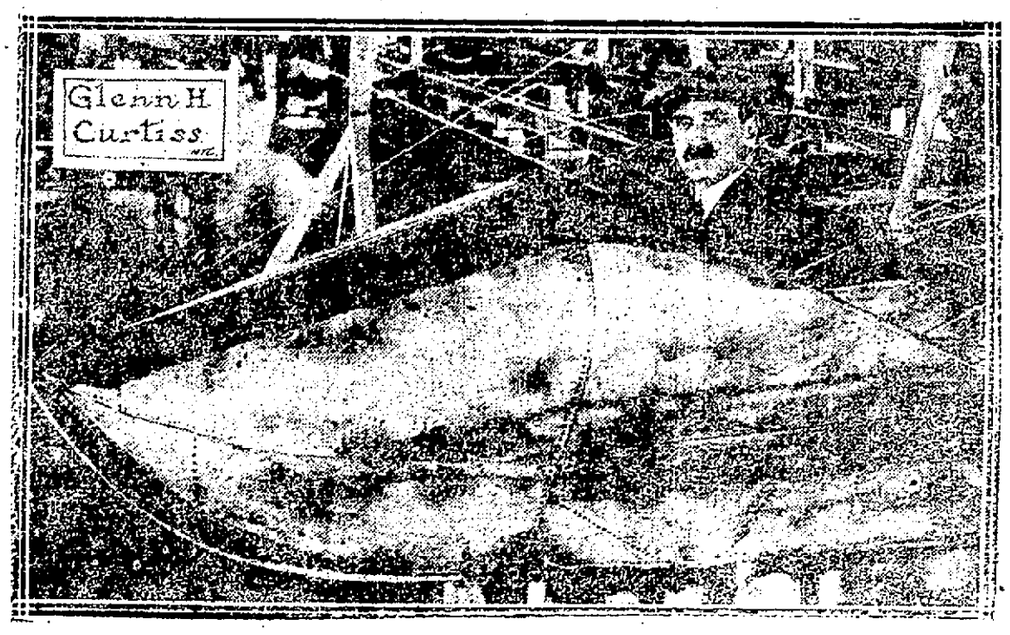
There is at least one textile mill in America which has continued to run at capacity. It has experienced no season of slack orders and it has made no reduction in its scientific staff. The president of this mill tells us that this success has been due to the fact that his scientists by continued research have kept his mill four or five years ahead of the procession. He is producing materials that have no competition. He is offering uniquely dyed fabrics which are in a class by themselves, and when there is a buyers' market, a mill in this position has an unusual advantage. The president of this mill proposes to increase research, for he knows he cannot possibly afford to curtail it.—Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

Dutch Bricks Lasting.

William Eliot Griffis, in "Brave Little Holland and What She Has Taught Us," writes: "After the Romans left and the barbarians triumphed, brick making became one of the lost arts. In the Rhine delta, the Dutch revived the art of molding clay into oblong forms and baking them into stone. Their material lay at hand in the rich beds deposited during centuries in the sluggish river bottoms. They made brick houses, walls, pavements, and road beds. So hard are the Dutch bricks burned that the common name is 'klinker.' Many of them have defied the teeth of time for ages." A large number of brick roads built during Napoleon's time are still in existence and in good condition.

Dutch Navigators First.

Dutchmen were the first foreigners to venture to the distant shores of Japan, and Dutch navigators founded rich colonies in Java and Sumatra.



Spurred on by the successful glider flights of two hours in Germany, Glenn H. Curtiss, of Buffalo and New York, one of the world's foremost aeronautical engineers, has perfected a seaplane glider which he believe will rise, unaided, from the sea and fly into the face of a stiff wind. His new motorless craft is of the same type as the NC boats that flew across the Atlantic. It is built of wood, duralumin and silk, and weighs only 150 pounds.

"Sold Wind" to Skippers.

A very curious vocation was that which provided the livelihood of Bessie Millis, who lived in the village of Stromness, in the Orkney islands, in the early part of the last century. Old Bessie "sold wind" to the skippers who put out from that port, and it is said that no mariner ever sailed out of Stromness without first paying her a visit. She made no pretensions to magical arts, but merely boiled her kettle and gave the vessel the benefit of her prayers. For this service she exacted the modest emolument of sixpence. According to Sir Walter Scott, Bessie held that the wind was sure to come, although sometimes the sailors were obliged to wait quite a while for it. Old Bessie's house was located on the brow of the hill on which the town is built, and was so wind-swept and exposed that it gave considerable color to the dame's claims of controlling the wind.

A Suggestion.

Buttons are made from ivory nuts, says an exchange. We know a number of people who would be doing much better in this world if they were made into buttons.

Georges Carpentier, European heavyweight champion, is shown in his latest photograph, taken at the French watering place at Dieppe, where he is spending a vacation, giving his little daughter, Jacqueline, a few lessons in motoring.

BILLIE BROWNIE'S DISCOVERY

"It is perfectly ridiculous," said Billie Brownie, "to say one doesn't like a race of people because one has met one member of that race whom one didn't like.

"The Cedar Wax Wing."

"It is utterly absurd for anyone to say that children aren't nice because he may have met one child he didn't like.

"It is very stupid to say anything like that, for I have discovered something."

"Yes," said Bennie Brownie, "tell me about it, Billie."

"I was thinking principally about birds," said Billie Brownie.

"I've been meeting some of the winter birds. Such dear brave creatures, not minding the snow or the cold weather, trying to be cheery and bright—even when their supply of food runs low.

"There are the darling little Song Sparrows. How I do love the Song Sparrows.

"They have spotted throats and their vests are spotted, too, you know, and in the center they always have one spot which is larger than the others.

"They eat harmful insects and do just as much good as ever they can.

"Then there are the Cedar Waxwings. They are always trying to destroy harmful flies, and they try to give cheer in the winter time.

"The Chickadees are as cheerful and bright as they can be, and they eat insect eggs and do all the work they can.

"They love to be given suet in the winter time so as to feel that their work is being thought well of and so that they may know that they are well liked.

"But the goshawk is very different.

"He is a bad creature. He will do as much harm as the Great Horned Owl, and he does a great deal of harm about poultry yards that the so-called 'hen hawk' is supposed to do.

"Yes, old Goshawk is a bad creature. He isn't quite so big, nor is he quite as strong as his mate—for in the hawk families the Mrs. Hawks have more strength and are of greater size as a rule than their mates.

"He is a handsome fellow and wears a gray-blue cape and a gray waistcoat.

"He is hated among the birds for he is so cruel and drives them to the ground only to kill them and have a meal.

"He attacks the partridge family, and someone said that a Goshawk will even put on such airs that he will only eat brains of pheasants—and kill pheasants just to eat their brains which he thinks are delicacies.

"But you see, one cannot judge all birds by the Goshawk or the Butcher Bird.

"So, if someone had only known those two birds and said they disliked all birds, it would be just the same as it is when someone has met one or two people of a certain land or a certain race or a certain town and has happened to meet disagreeable ones and then says:

"Cheerful and Bright."

"'I know all about those people. I've met some. And I don't like them.'

"For there are some few bad birds, but most of them are splendid.

"So I have discovered that one cannot judge by meeting just one or two of any group—no, one cannot judge at all.

"And I really do believe that it is only fair to judge each creature by what he or she does.

"That is what I have come to believe."

"And I agree with you, Billie Brownie," said Bennie Brownie. "I agree with every word you've said."

Frightened.

Jimmy, who was inclined to be a braggart, was telling his father and mother of his experiences while out camping.

"And all at once I stepped on a big rattlesnake," he began.

"How did you know it was a rattlesnake, Jimmy?" asked his father, sceptically.

"I could hear its teeth chatterin' the minute it saw me."

"And now, Johnny," said the teacher, "can you tell me what is raised in Mexico?"

"Aw, go on," replied the bright boy. "I know what you want me to say, but ma told me I shouldn't talk rough."—American Legion Weekly.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Few people, rich or poor, make the most of what they possess. In their anxiety to increase the amount of means for future enjoyment, they are apt to lose sight of their capability for the present.—Leigh Hunt.

FOR THE FAMILY MEAL

To avoid monotony and yet maintain a reasonable economy is the thrifty housewife's problem today.

Tamales.—Boil until tender a good fat fowl; strip the meat from the bones and chop fine. Chop one-half pound of raisins, one-half cupful of stoned olives, and one small red pepper, very fine. Mix all together and stir in two cupfuls of cornmeal which has been moistened with scalding water, season with salt, onion juice and a teaspoonful of sugar. Add more water and cook for fifteen minutes, then add six hard-cooked eggs, chopped. Lay the paste on green corn husks, wrap and tie and drop into boiling salted water and cook until tender.

Frozen Pudding.—Make a custard of a pint of milk, three egg yolks, a cupful of sugar and a pinch of salt; when cool add a half teaspoonful of almond extract, fold in the whites of the eggs beaten stiff and a cupful of cream, also whipped. Steam a quarter of a cupful of raisins, two tablespoonfuls of sliced citron and the same of candied cherries; cut fine in shreds with the scissors and add to the custard, then freeze as usual. When frozen, pack in a fancy mold.

Stuffed Cabbage.—Take a small loosely packed cabbage, drop into boiling water and cook until wilted. Remove and drain, open the leaves in the center and place seasoned meat between the leaves, out to the outside layer of leaves. Tie in a cheesecloth and cook until the cabbage is perfectly tender. Serve with a Hollandaise sauce.

Cheese Cakes.—Mix with one pound of well-seasoned cottage cheese one-half cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of flour. Separate the yolks and whites of four eggs and add the beaten yolks to the cheese, add the stiffly beaten whites and sufficient milk to make the consistency of griddle cake batter. Spread on a sheet of well greased paper laid in a dripping pan, cover the top with cinnamon, currants and bake twenty minutes in a moderate oven.

Means End of Advancement.

Sad is the day for any man when he becomes absolutely satisfied with the life that he is living, the thoughts that he is thinking and the deeds that he is doing; when there ceases to be forever beating at the doors of his soul a desire to do something larger, which he feels and knows he was meant and intended to do.—Phillips Brooks.

"Invisible" Inks.

As the result of an invention by Lawrence B. Sperry, the young wizard of the air, Brigadier General William Mitchell, Chief of Operations of the U. S. Air Service, declares a speeding airplane can now be landed safely on a tennis court, instead of the immense field formerly needed. Sperry has placed skids, such as were originally used by the Wright brothers on their first machines, above the wheels of his biplane. He takes-off by using the wheels, but once in the air he drops the wheels by means of a mechanical device, and when he lands he lands on the skids, which halt the machine instantly, instead of running along for hundreds of feet, as it would on wheels.

COLONIALS NOW ON EVEN TERMS

With Tannersville Team — Bill Schwab Gets Four Hits, Including a Circuit Clout—Harper Pitches and Three Peekskill A. C. Men Play With Locals.

They are not singing any songs in Tannersville now about Harry Harper to the tune of "Casey at the Bat," nor are they "speaking with awe of Ross's name in Harry Schirick's club." And somewhere in this favored land the sun is shining bright"—but not in Tannersville, no, no.

Everything was bright and cheery in the village in the mountains Sunday morning, but all was sad and dreary in the evening. And all because of a ball game played here Sunday afternoon. For that ball game was a sad spectacle for the fans from up in the Catskills. They had to watch their team go down to a 7 to 1 defeat, and ain't that enough to make any one feel sad and dreary? There's no inspiration in figures like that—not when you're on the losing end.

There was a rumor around town Sunday night that the Tannersville village council was to take up a collection to defray Bill Schwab's expenses for a trip to Russia or some other place where they don't play ball, provided Bill leaves before the next Colonial-Tannersville game. This was to be a reward for Bill's work in Sunday's affair. The left fielder of the Kingston club connected with four hits out of four times up, and the first of the four, a home run over the left field fence with two men on in the second inning broke the hearts of the Tannersville fans as well as the straw hats of several Kingstonians.

Politics isn't the only thing that makes strange bed-fellows. Baseball does the same. Three of the members of the Peekskill A. C. of Brooklyn, the same club that defeated the Colonials Saturday, were in the Kingston line-up. Three of Captain Schirick's regular men are hors de combat (that's one we learned in France) and the Peekskill men were injected into the pastime in their places. And the men from Brooklyn surely let it be known that they were right in the game.

Sid Ross, who had twice previously defeated the Colonials, thought he could do so again, that is, he thought so before the game. What Sid thought after the game is not known, but it is more than likely that twelve safe blows gave him something to think about. 'Tis true that some of Sid's teammates didn't look like big leaguers, but nevertheless, most of the blows were of the kind that were hit "where they ain't."

After the first inning or two 'Andsome 'Harry had little trouble in disposing of the mountainers. Only one safe blow was made off the ex-Yank after the fourth, and when ever 'Arry got in a 'ole 'e pulled 'imself out by some nice pitching.

It looked as if the Tannersville lads would start some trouble in the first inning, but Fogarty came to the rescue. Harper walked Strenck, first man to face him, but Raskin forced Strenck at second on an attempted sacrifice. Jimmy Morgan, lame knee and all, dragged himself to the plate and shot a double to left, Raskin going to third. Short sent a fly to Fogarty in center after which Raskin tried to score, but a perfect throw by Fogarty caught him at the plate.

Tannersville threatened to break into the scoring column again in the second, but Harper was in the way. Harry gave Ross four bad ones to start the inning, and when Harris laid down a bunt along the first base line the whole Colonial infield got all tangled up and Ross went to third while Harris pulled up at first. The situation was a bit eased when Smedes went out on a foul to Robins, and then Harper struck out F. Strenck and Dolan on six pitched balls, neither hitter getting as much as a foul tip.

There was several candidates for places in Middletown among the Kingstonians in the fans before the Colonial's half of the second inning was over. (Note. There were some candidates on the bench too.) Fogarty started things moving by going to first on a walk. Gallt laid down a bunt along the third base line and all hands were safe. Then Bill Schwab, with two strikes on him, sent one out of the lot and jogged home in the wake of Fogarty and Gallt. "This Babe Ruth stuff is the stuff for me," quoth William as he trotted around the sacks.

Taliaferro, who took Gallt's place in the fourth, cracked out a single to center to start the sixth. Schwab beat out a hit to short for his third safety. Taliaferro going to second on the play. Moore's bunt down the first base line and Harper's infield out sent Taliaferro home.

If Tannersville entertained any hope of winning the game, the seventh inning was a sad disappointment for them. In that frame the Colonials added three more runs to their total. Jack Robins, who hadn't got a hit in three times up, decided it was time to do so and sent a single to center. Both Jack and Coyle were safe when Ross's throw to catch Jack at second on Coyle's hit pulled Strenck off the bag. Morgan and Dolan couldn't decide which one should take Deegan's fly, and as a result Matty made two bases and Robins scored. Fogarty went out on a fly to second, but Taliaferro came through with another single to center and Coyle came home. Short, knowing that Schwab had made three out of three, didn't want to spoil a perfect day for Bill and allowed his short fly to fall safe, making it four out of four for the Kingston left fielder. Deegan scored on the hit and Schwab wore the smile that won't come off.

Oh yes, Tannersville scored a run. That's right. Made it in the third inning. Raskin got a single to center with one man down and went to second when one of Harper's pitches hit the dirt in front of the plate. Ward got under Morgan's fly, but Short sent a single to center and Raskin made home.

HURLEY.

Hurley, Aug. 26.—On Thursday evening in spite of the inclement weather, the Hurley Reformed Church held its annual fair and supper. The children with their package counter; Mr. and Mrs. DuMond with ice cream dispensation; Mrs. Ostrander and Mrs. Elmendorf at the apron counter; Hilda Lockwood and Katherine Dunn at the home-made candy counter; Mrs. Shibe at the fancy table; Mrs. Lockwood and Mrs. Dixon at the vegetable counter all added very materially to the attractiveness as well as the financial success of the fair. The large crowd in the dining room proved the community's appreciation of the Hurley housewives' good cooking. At one table enjoying the good things were three of Hurley's old residents, Charles DuMond 82, Mrs. E. Maxon 89, and Mrs. A. DuMond 86. At this same table was Mrs DuMond's daughter Mrs. George Stewart, also Mrs. Stewart's daughter, Mrs. J. E. Byrne and her two children thus making four generations. Those who remained at home because of the rain surely missed a good sociable time as well as an opportunity to purchase so many good things.

WILLIS SAYS SANFORD'S TRUCK HIT HIS OWN.

Saturday, Robert Willis who drives a motor truck which conveys laborers from Scranton to the Shandaken tunnel job, reported to the sheriff that a Larabee truck had collided with his car on the Ashokan boulevard, damaging it. He stated that he had secured the number of the car which struck him and that the car belonged to William Sanford of Margaretville and was being operated by a youth whom he thought was too young to operate a machine. No complaint was lodged against the driver with the local officials. Willis claimed that the same truck had crowded him off the road last Thursday.

Difference In Sexes.

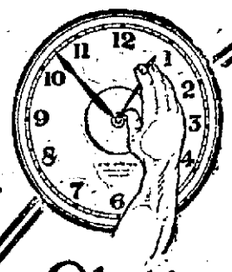
One thing that still differentiates the sexes slightly, for all the earnest efforts to make them just exactly alike in every way, shape and form, is the way a middle-aged wife considers it a treat to go out for dinner while a middle-aged husband considers it a treat to stay home for it.—Ohio State Journal.

The Mosquito Plant.

The virtues of the species of basil (Ocymum viride) known as the mosquito plant are attracting attention in England. An army officer has given a growing plant to the botanical gardens at Kew. He obtained it in Nigeria, where, he says, it is known to drive mosquitoes from its neighborhood, and the natives use an infusion of its leaves as a cure for malarial fevers. Its virtues are known in India also, as a border of it was planted round the Victoria garden in Bombay because the workmen were pestered by mosquitoes and suffered from malaria. As soon as the hedge was completed the mosquitoes left and there was no more malaria among the workmen.—Exchange.

Figures for Home Builder.

Unless very much interested in figures, the home builder does not know how each dollar is spent that he puts into the construction of his home. He knows in a general way that there are several general groups, but as he looks at the finished dwelling he does not know what per cent of the cost went for masonry or carpentry or something else. Using the dollar for illustrating the relative costs, it is estimated that 36.1 cents go for masonry, 29.1 cents for carpentry, 8.7 cents for heating, 6.5 cents for electrical work, 6 cents for plumbing, 3.5 cents for sheet metal work, 2.9 cents for roofing and 1.2 cents for hardware.



Health turns the Clock Backward

DID YOU EVER LOSE THE USE OF ONE LEG?

C. C. FROUDE, D. C.

Did you ever lose the use of one leg when it seemed that there was no reason for it? That is what frequently happens in rheumatism. But when the pain, the swelling and the disability all settles in one place there is a reason for it which will be found in the spine.

No two cases of rheumatism are exactly alike, and the case that gets your neighbor in the right knee, making one leg useless, may affect your left hip. This is easily explained. No two persons have exactly the same kind and degree of disturbance to spinal bone alignment. In one the disturbance may affect the nerve to the knee, and the weakness will center there. In another, it may be in the hip. But in either case the misalignment is discovered by the chiropractor, and by his skill he restores the correct alignment, and Nature restores health.

RHEUMATISM LEAVES HIS STIFFENED KNEE

"I came into the chiropractor's office supported by two friends. My knee was stiffened and the leg drawn up. I had no use of the leg. It was rheumatism they said, but the chiropractor found a bone in my spine causing pressure on a spinal nerve and after his adjustments had gone on for a time the leg suddenly limbered up and I am well. I would urge all persons who have suffered as I did, to turn to chiropractic. I gladly make this statement that those who are ailing may know where to go."—Alex Gagne, Chiropractor Research Bureau, Statement No. 13328

NEW WITNESS IN BERGIN SHOOTING

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 28.—The girl who was alleged to have been present when George Cline shot and mortally wounded John Bergin, an actor, in the Cline home at Edgewater, N. J., was found today. It was said that she would be taken to Hackensack, this afternoon, to tell her story to Prosecutor A. C. Hart. Cline is in jail at Hackensack.

The girl lives in this city. She is a blonde about 21 years old and is a moving picture actress. She is reported to have been a member of the company making a picture at Saranac Lake, N. Y., when Bergin was alleged to have been intimate with Mrs. Cline.

Prosecutor Hart said that the "mystery girl" was in the Cline home at Edgewater on Friday night when Bergin was shot and fatally wounded, but whether she saw the actual shooting was to be determined at the interview at the prosecutor's office in Hackensack this afternoon. It was established that the actress heard the conversation between the two men when Cline accused Bergin of attacking his wife.

COTTEKILL

Cottekill, Aug 28.—The Cottekill Reformed Sunday school will go on a picnic to Forsyth Park, Kingston, on Thursday, August 31. They will leave Cottekill on the 8:56 a. m. train and returning will leave Kingston on the 3 45 p. m. train. Every member of the school is requested to be at the railroad station not later than 8.30 a. m., in order that the teachers may know how many of their respective classes are going, and know how many tickets to purchase. The fares of every member of the school will be paid, both children and adults. Each person will provide their own lunch, and ice cream will be served free after lunch. Forsyth Park is a fine place for a Sunday school picnic, plenty of amusements for the litle folks, a good athletic field, and plenty of seats for all, and parents need have no fear for the safety of their children, as there is absolutely no danger at the park, besides each teacher will look after their own classes. Parents and friends of the members of the school, who are not members themselves, are cordially invited to accompany the school, and enjoy a pleasant day's outing. If it should storm, then the school will go on Friday, September 1, the same instructions to apply.

The annual chicken supper of the Cottekill Reformed Church will be held on the church grounds, early in September. Watch this paper for definite date and full particulars.

Repairs are being made to the school house on order to make another room for the second teacher, it having been voted at the annual school meeting to employ two teachers the coming term instead of one.

The public highway leading from this village to the state road near the village of Marbletown, is in a very bad state of repair. From the residence of F. Bosch to Echo Lodge whenever a rain occurs, the road is practically impassable for pedestrians and autos sink in to the tubs. It is hoped that the proper officials of the Town of Marbletown will have this road repaired, as it leads past Pleasant View Farm and Echo Lodge, both of which are filled with city guests and who have to use this road many times each day.

What Happened Next.

Two of us were standing on a street corner holding an unflattering discussion concerning a certain fellow who always hung around us and "butted in" generally.

Enter the object of our talk.

Quickly we switched the conversation and, as the fellow was particularly disgusting to me, I soon left.

That evening I called for my friend and, despite his facial contortions, which, although I did not understand then, I know were meant as warnings, I blurted out, "Can you beat how that doggone pest hangs around?"

Consternation and embarrassment are mild words to describe my feelings when out from behind the portiere stepped the "doggone pest."—Chicago Tribune.

A Lapse of Memory.

The different conventions held at Winona Lake make it imperative to use all available sleeping material.

Mrs. P., after filling her cottage to overflowing, remembered an old wooden bedstead that had been stored away. She got it out, and, after cleaning it with coal oil, she decided to make an absolutely clean job of it, so she struck a match to it, expecting the coal oil to burn off.

She stood there, too surprised to utter a sound, as she watched the entire bedstead go up in smoke.—Indianapolis News.

True Independence.

It is not the greatness of a man's means that makes him independent, so much as the smallness of his wants.—Cobbett.

Mrs Edith H S Wakefield

Mrs Edith Huntington Spreckles Wakefield, divorced wife of the late John D Spreckles, Jr., and now the wife of a San Francisco business man, whom she is suing for divorce denies the charge of Mrs. Rodney Kendrick, wife of a San Francisco newspaper artist, that she offered to buy Kendrick for $100 a month and give Mrs Kendrick a home if she would divorce Kendrick. Mrs Wakefield, California society woman, says she is "stone broke" and that the idea "is absurd."

MADE TO ORDER

By DORA NUTE

(©. 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"I am sorry to leave you this afternoon, Nathaniel," Mrs. Haynes was saying, "but, you see, our Sewing Circle is way behind in their work for the South Sea Islanders. Anyway, Anne will be here soon and she can sit with you until I get back." As an afterthought she added: "Don't encourage her to do anything for you, as she is sure to have an accident—you know we call her 'Awkward Anne.'"

Nat smilingly acquiesced, and when his aunt had trotted off to her circle Nat drifted into a light nap.

He was brought abruptly back from dreamland by an exclamation of "Oh, my!" followed by an avalanche of missiles, some of which landed on his knees, while more of the same lodged on his chest. The air seemed to be full of wild squawks of "Murder! Murder!" As he endeavored to sit up and speak, a warm, furry object was thrust into his mouth, while a frantic mewing arose, accompanied by wrigglings and squirmings about his neck and chin.

"Oh, my!" continued the human voice, while its owner stumbled over his feet. Now fully awakened, Nat inquired of the voice, "Who are you and what is this?" struggling with several objects. Then, with a laugh, he remembered his aunt's warning. "Are you Anne?" and a faint "Yes" was his answer.

"Well, I am sorry, but you will have to dig me out of this avalanche, for you see my eyes are off duty for a while."

Hurriedly, hands worked to relieve him of his burden, the mewing died down and the rasping cry of "Murder" was changed to an approving "Very fine, you are progressing." To break Anne's embarrassed silence, Nat asked "What is this?" lifting a flat, bulky object.

"My poems," answered the meek voice again, with a touch of pride.

A flash of wonder crossed Nat's mind as he tried to construct the picture in his mind of "Awkward Anne," about whom he had heard countless laughable tales, in the role of poetess. In an interested way, intended to be soothing, he said, "Well, now, I guess we can spend a pleasant afternoon waiting for auntie to return from her Sewing Circle if you are willing to hear my complaints of the way fate has laid me low with strained eyes, and I would be delighted if you would read me some of your poems, although I could only offer an amateur's judgment on them."

Anne's meekness evaporated as she joyously exclaimed, "How fine! You know I have been trying for a week to get into the proper mood to write a poem on my impressions of how a person must feel when the light has gone out of the windows of the soul.

"When I walked into Auntie's parlor and there you sat, with your eyes all bandaged, it startled me so that I said 'Oh, my,' so suddenly in Polly's ear that she screeched and grabbed my ear in her beak. It hurt so that I lost my grip on my basket of kittens and my poems." Here her voice lost its joyous note.

While he suppressed his desire to laugh, Nat explained how his "blamed old eyes broke down" on him and in her sympathy over his misfortune, Anne forgot her unfortunate arrival on the scene and confided to him how hard it was to keep her poems out of sight of her ridiculing relatives, and of course no one could get the proper effect of their lines unless she read them aloud, so naturally Polly made a fine assistant when trained to say, "That is exquisite."

When Auntie arrived, she was much pleased with the state of affairs, and a tiny hope stirred in her matchmaking heart that these two would be attracted to each other. Nat was progressing in his profession and Anne might be waked out of that abstract manner which fixed on her the handicap of awkwardness.

Auntie approved of the long afternoons down in the orchard which followed, with Anne reading to Nat in an earnest manner, while Nat sat with his lap full of sleepy kittens, and Polly with her sage head on one side, offered her compliments.

Anne posted big, mysterious, business-like envelopes and Nat was fairly caught with his bandages pushed up over his forehead, writing feverishly in a notebook on his knees. When discovered, Nat begged her to keep his secret, but her curiosity became acute when Nat returned from one of his trips to the city to see his specialist with a large parcel under one arm.

After supper he called Auntie and Anne into the sitting room, where he opened the package, displaying two slim, blue covered books with the title, "Poems of Arcady, by Anne Brown." While Auntie gazed in wonder at her copy, recollecting the afternoons in the orchard, Anne exclaimed: 'Oh, my, if I could only help you in your lifework as you have helped me," to which Nat made the astonishing reply, "You have, Anne," and forthwith offered for her inspection a compact, brown-covered book entitled, "Personal Experiments in Overcoming the Handicap of Nerves, by N. M. Thayer, M. D."

But, as Auntie said, Anne needn't have been so indignant at being used as a subject for Nat's experiments, for it was all going to be in the family now, anyway.

Generous.

"Madge is very generous."
"What does she give away?"
"All the secrets she knows."

Keep Mind Open to Reason.

Be reasonable. Agitation which overrides common sense leads to quick conclusions that close the mind to reason. Without reason it is impossible to be reasonable. If you can't be reasonable you can't be fair to yourself or to others.

POULTRY

FEEDING PIGEONS IN LOFTS

Most Popular Method Is to Have Stated Hours for Placing Grain Supply in Troughs.

Self-feeding hoppers are seldom found nowadays in the lofts of veteran pigeon breeders. Their argument is that they have not found it profitable to have several days' supply of grain within reach so the birds may help themselves at will. There are two reasons for this: First, inferior squabs are raised in lofts where feed is constantly before the birds, as there is no regularity among the breeding pigeons in feeding their young; second, this continual picking at the grain eventually leads to poor appetites, resulting in the squabs suffering.

Another disadvantage in having feed lying around, is that it attracts mice and even rats, and when once these enemies get in a loft there is great loss of young birds.

The most popular method for feeding is to have stated hours for placing the grain in the troughs. These troughs are placed in the center of the floor, so that there will be plenty of room for all the birds to gather around it. Galvanized iron drinking vessels are preferred to stone fountains.

There are three open boxes in each loft, measuring 12 inches in length, three inches in width, and three inches in depth, and these boxes contain oyster-shell, grit and charcoal.

A bathtub is placed in the aviary of each pen. These are made of galvanized iron and of convenient size for handling. During the winter the birds are given a bath about once a week, but only on bright clear days. In summer it may be given twice a week. These pans are filled about eleven o'clock in the morning and allowed to remain for about two hours, when they are emptied and turned upside down. If the water is not emptied shortly after the birds are through bathing, they may drink of it and become sick.

LIME OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

Mineral Element Is Essential for Egg Production and Development of Young Chicks.

Provision for an adequate supply of lime in the ration should be made by poultry raisers, for if this important mineral element is lacking in the food a drain is made on the reserve supply in the bones and soft tissues of the animals which interferes materially with egg production in mature hens and in the proper development of the growing chicks.

BIG VALUE OF ANIMAL FEED

Experiments Made at Purdue University Showed Great Increase in Egg Production.

Animal feeds have a decided value in the ration of laying hens and pullets. Experiments made by the Purdue University showed an average egg record of 140.2 eggs in a year from a pen of pullets fed skim milk; 127.9 eggs from those fed meat scrap, and 61.2 eggs from those that received no animal feed of any kind.

POULTRY NOTES

If your chicks are not doing well something is wrong. Look out for lice and for worms in the intestines.

* * *

All cockerels that are not to be used as breeders should be marketed as soon as they weigh about two pounds.

* * *

A two-pound bird will sell for as much now as a four-pound bird two months later.

* * *

The sex of geese is best distinguished by size and voice. Ganders are somewhat heavier and have harsher voices. It is the ganders that hiss when they are attacked or annoyed.

* * *

Sweet milk in abundance is highly desirable. Milk-fed fowls usually bring a premium on the markets and have a better flavor than those fed on fattening rations moistened with water.

Shellfish Probably First.

Shellfish are older than man. They lived upon the earth many years, perhaps thousands of years and perhaps thousands of centuries, before the first man or the first ape that looked like a man came to live upon our sphere.

CITY OFFICIALS PLAY TOMORROW

Williams and Schirick Their Battery —Will Have to Hit Some to Win if Red Wagner is Feeling Fit.

After a glance over the lineup of the City Officials and the Highway Men it will be immediately seen that there is going to be some game at the Kingston Fair Grounds Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock when the two teams clash. The benefits will go to the tuberculosis hospital. The lineup of the teams when Mayor Cran tosses over the first ball will be as follows:

City Officials—Williams, pitcher; Schirick, catcher; Hanley, first base; Rice, second base; Leudtke, short stop; Cashin, third base (captain); Darrow, right field; Dittus, center field; Zelie, left field; Van Wagenen, Kuehn, Joy, Belchert and Macholdt, utility men. Alderman William B. Martin is manager of the city officials' team.

Highway Men—Wagner, pitcher; Wood, catcher; Boice, first base; Barley, second base; Bartsch, short stop (captain); Van Benschoten, third base; Krom, right field; F. Maxon, center field; Murphy, left field; Brogan, Hicks and Boice will be the utility men. Charles Seib is manager for the Highwaymen.

FRUIT RIPENING EARLY; LOTS OF IT THIS YEAR

Housewives who are planning to take advantage of the big crops of peaches, pears, grapes and other fruits, should have their kettles ready a few days earlier than usual, for fruits are ripening rapidly and those who are not prepared may miss the best season for canning and preserving.

The best time to buy peaches for canning and preserving will be when Elbertas are being picked. About 90 per cent of the state crop will be of that variety this year. Elbertas are now coming into the market.

Big pear crops are expected this year. The picking of Bartletts, which are the standard variety for table use, is now just starting in Western New York. Seckels, which are very small pears, but unsurpassed in quality either as a dessert fruit, for baking or for pickling, ripen a week to ten days later. Kiefers, which usually sell for a lower price and are quite extensively used for canning, will not be picked until the 1st of October. In the case of each variety, the picking season lasts about three weeks.

Concord grapes, the leading variety for table use, for jelly and for grape juice, will be picked in quantity beginning about September 5 in the Hudson Valley.

Damson plums, the kind usually considered the best for jam, and quinces, which make delicious jelly, both have a long season for there are several varieties that ripen in succession. The picking of Damsons has begun and will continue until October. Quinces will start in a couple of weeks and will not all be picked until the 1st of November.

With a large supply of apples available, this will be a good year for many families to revert to the old-fashioned custom of putting a barrel of apples into the cellar in the fall.

MAINTENANCE MEN PRESENT DEMANDS

Grable Asks Minimum of 48 Cents an Hour and That "Living Wage" Be Defined in Transportation Act Amendment.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—Prospects of a bitter fight with the strike of the 400,000 maintenance of way men throwing their strength with the striking shopmen, loomed today when the United States Railroad Labor Board opened its hearings for a wage increase asked by the way men.

President E. F. Grable, head of the way men, startled the members of the Labor Board and representatives of the 105 roads, by submitting the following as the demands of the way men:

A new wage scale with a minimum of 48 cents an hour, and "the sky as the limit," above that.

Recognition by the board of the doctrine of "the living wage" to be defined and placed in an amendment to the Transportation Act.

Swedish "Wets" Win.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Stockholm, Aug. 28.—Incomplete returns from Sunday's plebiscite on prohibition indicated that the "wets" had been victorious over the "drys." Both men and women voted. The "drys," financed largely from the United States, had put up a vigorous fight to prohibit the drink traffic.

Beating the Coal Strike.

R. C. Lasher of Westkill has recently purchased of the Canfield Supply Company, a large Hercules gasoline engine for wood sawing.

The Kingly Eagle.

Eagles have been known to attack full-grown sheep and even stags; but the stories of their carrying off children should be taken with a grain of salt, for, like nearly all the creatures of the wild, the eagle will attack man only in self-defense. He is the unquestioned king of birds. There are many larger and more powerful than he, but none of them has the courage, the swiftness or the majestic carriage of the eagle. Ever since man was man the eagle has appealed to him as a creature of romance. Legends and fables about him abound in all languages. All the world over you will find the eagle as the symbol of nobility. The Indian chief wears a headdress of eagle's feathers as a mark of his high position.

OPPOSE MORE POWER FOR I. C. C.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 28.—Strong opposition to the administration bill to give the Interstate Commerce Commission blanket authority to establish priority and embargoes to prevent the "exaction of unreasonably high prices" for coal again prevented favorable action on it today by the senate interstate commerce committee.

Although a majority of the committee members, both Republicans and Democrats, refused to endorse the bill, it was agreed that the bill should be reported and flung into the senate so that it "could be thrashed out in the open."

"UNCLE TOM" SHOW WELL PATRONIZED IN MOUNTAINS.

A tent show presenting Uncle Tom's Cabin is making a tour of the mountains, playing one night stands and drawing large crowds. Saturday night the "show" was given at Phoenicia and was attended by a large crowd of local folks as well as boarders. In addition to the big show there is also a side show where the "artists" present various novel and mystifying stunts. The company consists of half a dozen actors and travels from place to place, drawing nightly crowds of two or three hundred people.

Cars Collide on Broadway.

Sunday evening at 7 o'clok at the corner of Broadway and Foxhall avenue a Ford touring car, owned and occupied by a New York party, coming down Broadway collided with a Franklin car owned and driven by out of town residents. The Franklin came out second best, needing the services of a local mechanic. Both cars finally resumed their journey.

Co-ops Exhibit at State Fair.

"One of the most impressive and significant features of the state fair this year will be exhibits of the statewide farmers' co-operative associations," Charles G. Porter of Albion, director of the New York State Farm Bureau Federation, who is one of the committee preparing for Farm and Home Bureau day at the fair, said recently.

Lightning's Freak.

Early Saturday morning lightning struck the new storehouse of the Catskill Evening Line at Catskill Point and after following one of the big braces along the roof it ran down the electric light conduit and disappeared in the ground. There was practically no damage.

Books—Old and Rare.

Imprimis, the searcher for rare books must be able to recognize one when he sees it. As few people possess the expert knowledge which enables them to recognize, in a pile of books, what is valuable and what is not, it is advisable and generally profitable, to secure expert advice before disposing of any considerable collection of old books. Nor is it well to expect, as the shrewd old Yankee proverb puts it, that there is a bass under every lily-pad. In most old attics in New England there are collections, large or small, of aged books. The chances are that they are valuable only as waste paper; yet again, they hold the chance of a find.

THE NEW WOLLENSAK POCKESCOPE

A four-power pocket telescope for $2.00

Practically all field glasses, telescopes and binoculars on the market are comparatively bulky in construction and high in price. Many outdoor folks have long desired an instrument of extreme compactness and at a price within the reach of all. The Pockescope, the new Wollensak pocket telescope, fills this need. It is as compact as a jackknife and sells for only $2.00.

The Pockescope is not a toy. It is a scientifically constructed instrument built on the Galilean principle, beautifully finished, reasonably powerful and of exceptional optical quality.

Every camper, tourist, motorist, boy scout, and, in fact, every one who loves to be out of doors should own this unusual instrument for the Pockescope is a convenient little companion that greatly adds to summer joys.
